Message from the Collection Editors

The mission for this collection is to find and make directed the articles on the subject of innovative polymer-based flame retardant systems, which are being received by polymers, towards a scientific committee. The collection editors are specifically working on flame retardant polymers and fire retardancy of polymer composites, having a comprehensive view over the quality of works. This collection provides the readers and authors with an active and dynamic atmosphere to keep them updated about new progress in the field. Original regular papers, Review Papers, and Short Communications, are possible kinds of manuscript that can be submitted by authors.

Topics include, but are not limited to:

- Synthesis and design of flame retardant additives for polymers
- Development and characterization of flame retardant polymer blends and composites
- Strategy for additive manufacturing for flame retardant polymers
- Environmental impact of flame retardant polymers
- Modelling and simulation of flame retardancy mechanism in polymer systems
- Flame retardancy of polymeric fibers and textiles
- Green flame retardant polymer composites
- Flame retardant polymer coatings and thin films
